It's Richard and Rocky In GOP Scramble

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon took in stride today a prediction that he may get active opposition from Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the GOP presidential nomination.

In a scheduled breakfast talk before the Republican National committee Nixon had an opportunity to comment, if he chose, on a forecast made Friday by chairman Thurston B. Morton.

Morton told reporters after the committee had endorsed the record and policies of President Eisenhower and Nixon that he would not be surprised if Rockefeller gets back into a contest he quit last December.

Rockefeller spokesman said in New York, "I don't know where he got that idea. It didn't come from anyone around Rockefeller." The governor has said he would accept a draft for the nomination.

Morton said he didn't think a re-entry by Rockefeller into the race would make much difference in the convention outcome. He said national committee members would very definitely the vice president will be our nominee."

While Wendell L. Willkie won the Republican nomination in a seven-week pre-convention blitz in 1940, most Republicans don't think Rockefeller could duplicate this feat in the seven weeks left before the GOP nominating meeting in Chicago.

Willkie ran against several opponents and was able to bowl them over because they did not unite against him. Rockefeller would face a single rival, who already has more than enough convention votes pledged to him to assure him the nomination. Nixon also has the backing of Eisenhower.

Nixon and Rockefeller met Friday in New York at the opening of a British trade exhibit attended by Prince Philip. In a private atmosphere at the exhibit, they shook hands and Rockefeller slapped Nixon on the shoulder. "Hi ya, Nelly," Rockefeller reportedly said.

Nixon, in a luncheon speech, said the American people sometimes are "impatient when policies we adopt in world affairs do not automatically solve problems and bring peace." He said this "gives the impression that we lack stamina, the determination to live through adversity and rise above it."

Nixon told the luncheon "the conflict in which we are engaged may not be resolved in two or five years — perhaps a generation or even 50 years. I hope it is not going to be resolved by war."

Herter Favors Fewer Meets of Ministers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said today he is coming to the conclusion there should be fewer meetings of foreign ministers and "greater reliance upon the normal mechanisms of diplomacy."

This would be a sharp swing from the policy of his globe-trotting predecessor, the late former Secretary John Foster Dulles.

And, by the same reasoning there would be little or no place for summit diplomacy—meetings of heads of state.

Herter spoke his views at a hearing before a Senate subcommittee investigating government policy matters.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), the subcommittee chairman, announced that in line with an agreement with the White House the group would reserve for a closed door hearings later today questions about the U2 spy plane incident.

Herter also stated that a claim to "clear primacy" for the State Department over policy matters in support of national security goals, apparently meaning defense as well as diplomatic matters.

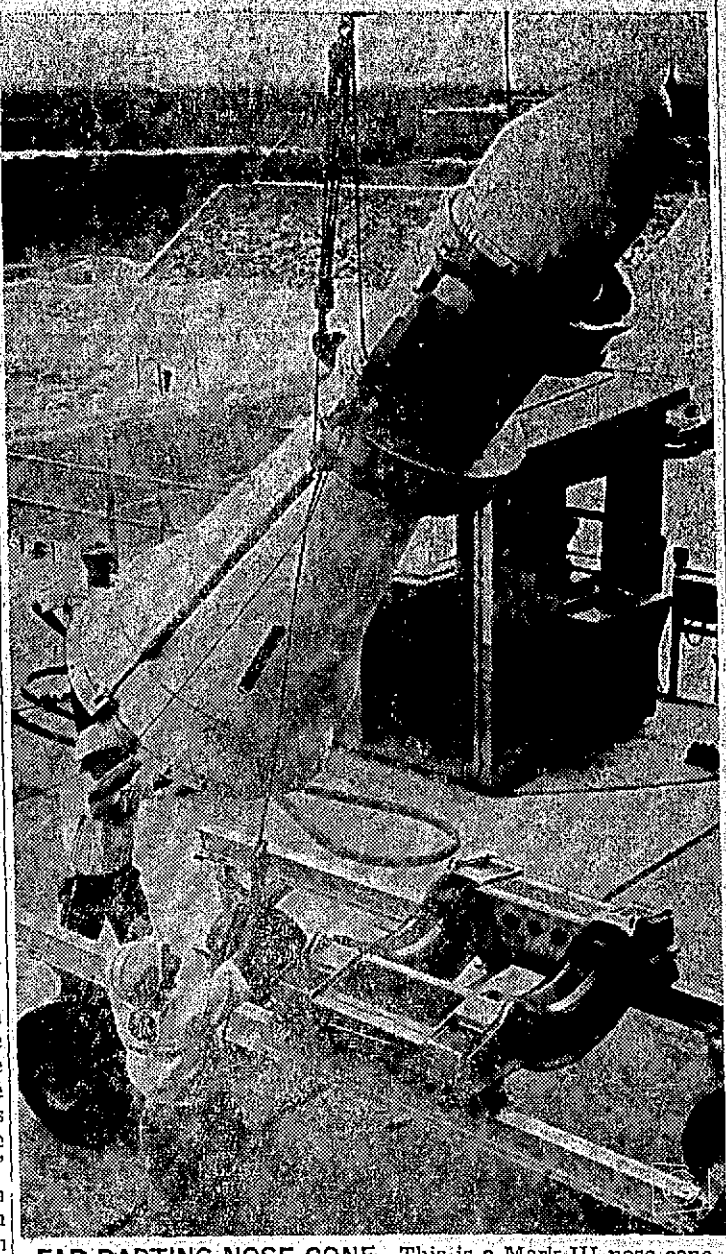

The secretary rejected the idea of creating a new post of minister of foreign affairs, subordinate to the secretary and charged with the duty of attending foreign ministers meetings.

Weather

ARKANSAS — Partly cloudy and warm through Sunday with widely scattered thundershowers.

FAR-DARTING NOSE CONE—This is a Mark III nose cone, the usual payload of an Atlas missile, which is the only operational ICBM in the U.S. arsenal. A one-and-a-half-ton cone of this type was hurled 9,000 miles in 52½ minutes by an Atlas May 20. Traveling in a 1,000-mile-high trajectory, the cone spanned two oceans—the North and South Atlantic—and dropped into a third—the Indian Ocean, 500 miles northeast of the Prince Edward Islands. It was covered with a material which burns and vaporizes during re-entry into the earth's atmosphere, thus dissipating heat and keeping interior cool.

Girls State Delegates Get Chance

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Enthusiastic young delegates to Arkansas' Girls State got a chance to have their say on governmental affairs today.

The girls took over offices to set up a mythical legislature. About 700 girls from throughout Arkansas are attending the week-long Girls State, an exercise in civil administration. The exercise, based at nearby Camp Robinson, ends tomorrow.

Among bills the girls had prepared to bring up in their mock legislature this afternoon were:

A measure to provide that the state build and operate homes for the aged, with a one-cent tax on soft drinks to supply money for the program.

A bill proposing the abolition of capital punishment, a measure to compel automobile drivers to take periodic tests, a bill to prohibit sale of cigarettes to persons under 16 and one which would abolish sale of alcoholic beverages.

Other measures include proposals for lowering the voting age, to 18, setting a minimum of $3,600 a year for teachers with bachelors' degrees and $4,200 for those with masters' degrees.

Manager of Hospital Is Fired

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — A board of arbitration today reluctantly fired Harold P. Coston as administrator of St. Vincent's Hospital in Cambridge-Maryland.

The five-man arbitration unit also directed that others in the forefront of the dispute relinquish their duties on the hospital board or medical executive committee for at least three years.

Coston was a central figure in a bitter controversy over administration and operation of the 72-bed hospital serving this normally tranquil town on Maryland's Eastern shore of Chesapeake Bay.

The dispute developed after Coston was hired in 1953 to improve the services and financial condition of the hospital.

The board of one lawyer and four non-Cambridge doctors noted that under Coston's administration the hospital improved its finances and achieved the approval of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals by 1957.

Coston had "sought to bring about improvements at once," the arbitrators found, and "unfortunately the resistance and the delay which developed in the negotiations prevented this."

Two Lawyers Honored by Bar Group

HOPE SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Two lawyers and the Pulaski County Bar Assn. were honored with awards at a banquet on the Arkansas Bar Assn. last night.

An outstanding lawyer award was presented to Jo C. Barrett of Jonesboro, and Adrian Williamson of Monticello was given an award as an outstanding lawyer-citizen.

The Pulaski County bar organization is headed by Thomas Downie of Little Rock.

Barrett was cited for outstanding service to the legal profession. He has been a practicing attorney for 39 years.

The award for Williamson was based on his civic leadership and service to his community.

Sponsor of the three awards, presented for the first time this year, was the Arkansas Bar Foundation. The Foundation is a non-profit group which operates Presentation of the awards was one of the highlights of the Bar Assn.'s activities on the opening day of its 62nd annual convention. The meeting ends today with election of officers.

Associate Justice George Rose Smith of the Arkansas Supreme Court addressed the awards banquet on "Television As I See It."

An address by John C. Satterfield of Jackson, Miss., who has been nominated to become president-elect of the American Bar Assn. features today's meeting. Satterfield's topic is "Is American Democracy Fading Away?"

C. R. Warner Jr. of Fort Smith was elected chairman of the Bar Assn.'s Junior Bar section yesterday. Warner who has been vice chairman, succeeded William I. Prewett of El Dorado.

Comer Boyett Jr. of Searcy was elected vice chairman of the Junior Bar Assn., and J. M. Shaw of Fort Smith secretary-treasurer.

Big Missile Strike Likely to Spread

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Union spokesmen say the strike against Convair's far-flung missile facilities will spread Monday to the firm's big airplane and missile-making plants here.

The move would idle 20,000 workers building Atlas intercontinental missiles, F106 interceptors and other aircraft.

The workers are on strike over a pay dispute. The union is demanding a 10 percent raise and a new contract.

The strike is the latest in a series of labor disputes at Convair. In 1958, workers struck over a pay dispute, and in 1959, they struck over a contract dispute.

The union is the International Union of Mechanical Workers, Local 1400.

Castro Blasts U. S. 3rd Time In 36 Hours

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro asserted Friday night that a U.S. military plane look "movie films and photographs" of a Soviet ship off Cuba's coast and denounced it as "an act of espionage."

In his third blast against the United States in 36 hours, Castro rejected two U.S. protests received by his government. He countered with the "pirate plane" disclosure and an attack on foreign oil companies in Cuba.

The Cuban leader showed a TV audience pictures of a twin-engine plane that appeared to be a U.S. Navy patrol craft flying near a ship he identified as Russian. He listed the aircraft's registry number as "LF128-390."

The Soviet ship was 10 miles off the north coast of Matanzas province, adjoining Havana province, Castro said. The plane hovered over the vessel so long, he added, that the Soviet crew had time to row out and take the pictures.

Castro rejected as violent and virulent two U.S. protests and declared they "reveal the spirit of aggression" by the United States against Cuba.

Washington said in a sharp note State Department.

False and offensive charges against the United States. An earlier note accused the Castro government of an "intense official campaign of slander" against the U.S. government.

Castro declared his government would never reply to Washington's demand for an explanation of the shooting at a U.S. submarine in Cuban waters last month. He referred to the incident of the sub Sea Poacher, fired on by a Cuban frigate reportedly after the sub failed to identify itself.

Switching to the petroleum issue, Castro charged that refusal of foreign oil firms to refine Soviet crude oil was an "act of treachery" oriented by the U.S. Friday that Cuba was making a "decision" to destroy his revolution by leaving Cuba without oil, he said, and warned that the companies should "rectify their decision or accept the consequences."

Rundown on Bills in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is a rundown on the status of some top bills pending in Congress:

FOREIGN AID — A House Appropriations subcommittee Thursday voted to place about $600 million dollars from President Eisenhower's original request for $4,175,000,000. The action is subject to review by the full committee next Monday.

HOUSING — A Senate Housing subcommittee this week completed a $1,501,500,000 bill that far exceeds Eisenhower's requests. It goes now to the full Banking Committee which is expected to send it to the Senate floor soon.

SCHOOL AID — An attempt to send conflicting House and Senate measures to a conference committee to iron out differences was blocked in the House Thursday by the single objection of Rep. James C. Davis (D-Ga.). His maneuver sent the matter to the House Rules Committee, where it is likely to languish until Congress adjourns in July.

WHEAT — The Senate Thursday night passed and sent to the House a bill that would offer wheat growers three more years of price supports at the present level of 75 per cent of parity, plus additional payments in kind from the government's huge surplus stockpile. In return growers would agree to a 20 per cent cutback in acreage in an effort to reduce surpluses. A rival bill is in the works in the House.

Bell Official Dies at Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Paul P. Cheatham, 64, assistant general manager for Arkansas of Southern Bell Telephone Co. died at a Little Rock hospital today after a long illness.

He had been employed by Southern Bell for 40 years, 20 of them in Arkansas.

He was promoted to assistant general manager several months ago.

Survivors include his widow, a son and two daughters, his mother and four sisters.

Funeral arrangements will be announced.

U2 Inquiry Has Been Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate Foreign Relations Committee meeting to discuss a possible report on the recent inquiry into the U2 spy plane incident has been delayed until next week.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) said yesterday the committee staff is still analyzing testimony obtained in four days of closed door sessions and preparing a working draft on the basis to a committee report.

Laws Made to Protect Women Told

HOPE SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The president of the National Assn. of Women Lawyers told Arkansas attorneys today that every violation of law and order weakens the nation.

Mrs. Maurine H. Abernathy of Washington, D. C., said in an address to the Arkansas Bar Assn. that obedience to authority is the spirit of the law.

"Our laws are made to protect people," she told a luncheon meeting. "But sometimes for the weak they are too strong and for the strong, too weak."

She said law-breaking posed a threat to national strength and security. Referring to stories of so-called "thrill crimes" in newspapers, she added: "One cannot help but wonder what has caused this complete disregard of life and property and this failure to respect anything."

Mrs. Abernathy said "we read a great deal these days about individual rights, freedom and emancipation through compulsion."

"Everyone seems to know about his rights and freedoms, but with every right is there not a responsibility and duty? Just laws should be no restraint upon the freedom of the individual law-abiding citizen."

52 Also Hit by North Methodists

PAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The North Arkansas Methodist Conference yesterday became the third Arkansas organization in two weeks to condemn proposed Constitutional amendment 52.

The conference passed a thumbs down resolution similar to one adopted by Arkansas' other Methodist group—the Little Rock Conference.

Last Sunday the Committee on Political Education of the state AFL-CIO voted to enounce the anti-integration measure.

The amendment, which will force school districts faced with integration to close their schools. It also would distribute tax money to help students pay for their education and would alter the millage school-financing structure.

The latest Methodist resolution said in part: "In the critical situation which exists in our state at the present, we call on all Methodists in our conference to support the cause of free education by exerting influence toward the defeat of proposed Amendment 52."

The amendment, which will be on the November general election ballot, has developed into a major issue of the gubernatorial campaign.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who backed it in the 1959 Legislature, has defended it as "permissive legislation."

His four opponents in the governor's race have voiced strong opposition to the amendment as a destroyer of free public education.

Williams Declares He'll Beat Alford

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Sen. Robert Hays Williams of Russellville predicted last night he will beat Rep. Dale Alford (D-Ark.) in his congressional race.

Williams said voters in five counties of the 5th Congressional District have told him he will have a 7,500 to 10,000 vote lead "when I get to Pulaski County on the night of the election."

Besides Pulaski, the district's counties are Pope, Faulkner, Conway, Yell and Per.

Williams are endorsed from the platform at a barbecue supper last night by George F. Hartje, a school children who missed the school because of illness, and Conway, the Communist party newspaper Trybuna Ludu reported today.

Employment Office Will Dedicate Its New Home on S. Elm Wednesday at 1:30 p. m.

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Hope is one of 13 cities in Arkansas to get a branch office building of the Employment Security Division in one of the biggest statewide building programs ever undertaken by a state agency. However, it should be pointed out that the pretty ESD building at 700 South Elm will not cost the State of Arkansas a single dollar. This is because the title is vested in the state and amortized over a 20-year period from Reed Act federal funds.

Open House and Dedication of the new building is scheduled for next Wednesday, June 15 at 1:30 p. m. The public is cordially invited to the ceremonies at which state administrative officials and representatives of the Arkansas State Department of Labor will be present. The dedicatory prayer will be offered by the Rev. Rufus P. Sorrells, pastor of the First Methodist Church. Appropriate remarks will be made by Mayor Sam Andrews and C. R. Thornbrough, Arkansas Commissioner of Labor. The principal address will be made by J. L. Bland, state administrator.

The recent move to 700 South Elm marks the third location of the agency in Hope. Federalized during the World War II, it was called the U. S. Employment Service and was located at 201 East 2nd. In November of 1946 the employment service was returned to state operation, but the location of the office in Hope remained the same. In May of 1956, when the property was sold to the First National Bank, the ESD office was moved to the former location of Allen Electric Co. at 114 South Elm.

"The present location was purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas. It has a 100 foot frontage on Elm Street and 150 feet on West 7th Street. The building was constructed by J. L. Lavender Construction Co. of Hope on a bid of $44,341 and the lot cost $5,000. The large blacktop parking area is out of the parking meter district. Federal suggestions recommended location of ESD offices on a fringe area of the business district.

It is a common error to refer to the office as an Unemployment agency. Since Employment is the chief function, the name is Employment Security Division. It has a two-fold purpose: 1. To get jobs for people who are out of work; 2. If out of work and unable to be placed, to pay them unemployment insurance if they are eligible under the Arkansas law.

Last year the Hope office placed in employment 1,235 persons in jobs in and around Hope and, in some instances, out of state through interstate clearance procedures. Paul McClellan is local office Employment Relations Representative. The Hope office took 2,650 applications for work in the four county area of Hempstead, Howard, Nevada, and Lafayette last year.

Another phase of operations is counseling of veterans, graduating seniors, older workers, and new entrants into the labor market. J. T. Bowden, Jr., is counselor and along with the staff counseled 560 people in 1959-1959. Herman Smith, recently retired from the military, is claimant interviewer. Last year the local office filed 2,919 new and additional unemployment claims and took a total of 15,765 claims for weeks of unemployment.

Ruth Edmonds and Frances Sue Somerville handle clerical and stenographic work in the local office. Since 1947 Teddy Jones has been manager. The local office works closely with local civic groups and schools in addition to employers. Special programs have included those dealing with the Older Worker, the Handicapped Worker, and Vocational Guidance. The ESD has been a guiding force in the organization and the continued functioning of the Golden Age Club in Hope.

In inviting the public to the dedication and open house of the ESD office in Hope, Manager Teddy Jones said, "It is with a deep sense of pride, and yet in a very humble spirit, that we plan to dedicate our new building to the service of the public and invite you to be a part of making this a memorable event in the continuing advancement of Hope and our surrounding area."

Ex-con Admits to Killing Daughter

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo. (AP) — A 65-year-old ex-convict today signed a statement admitting that he killed his teenage daughter. Police Chief Glenn Clevenger said.

Clevenger said William M. Faubus, alias Cecil Floyd, signed the statement after 12 hours of continuous questioning. A charge on first degree murder was filed Sunday against Faubus Wednesday.

The charge carried a maximum penalty of death in the gas chamber. Faubus was designated superintendent of the state penitentiary at Joplin Tuesday afternoon in a field near here. The search party was led by the grandfather. Faubus had been missing 2 days.

Prosecutor Richard McFadin said Faubus died during a rape attempt although an autopsy on the decomposed body failed to disclose the cause of death.

Chief Clevenger said Faubus' statement said he strangled his daughter.

Communists Demonstrate In Tokyo

By CHARLES R. SMITH

TOKYO (UPI) — A screaming anti-American mob passed outside the national capital today in a new effort to force cancellation of President Eisenhower's scheduled visit to Japan.

An estimated 80,000 persons, most of them Communists or Socialists, demonstrated outside the Parliament building and the nearby residence of Premier Nobusuke Kishi. Another 10,000 snaked down and down outside the U.S. embassy.

Heavy police detachments stood guard at all three places, but there was little violence beyond the breaking of several windows at the headquarters of Kishi's Liberal Democratic Party.

While House Press Secretary James Hagerty, undaunted by the screaming hostility of the mob, met U.S. and Japanese officials to discuss arrangements for the President's visit.

Escape Crazed Mob
Hagerty and U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II were removed from the midst of a hate-crazed mob at Tokyo Airport Friday by a U.S. Marine helicopter after they had been besieged for some time in an official car.

Today's demonstrators waved red flags and banners bearing such slogans as "We oppose Eisenhower!" "Hagerty, phone like to stay out of Japan," and "Hagerty, go home in your U-2."

Unionists demonstrating outside the embassy were headbanded in-scribed "We dislike Ike."

Threaten Another Attack
One banner, evidently referring to Friday's mob attack on Hagerty and MacArthur, said "We'll do it again"—presumably meaning when Eisenhower arrives here a week from Sunday.

Among the mobs were about 3,000 members of the Zengakun student organization—a group so fanatically radical that its leaders were expelled from the Communist Party.

Many of the student demonstrators are being paid for their daily demonstrations against the Eisenhower visit and the revised U.S. Japanese security pact which becomes effective on the day of the President's arrival. The source of the funds has not been established.

The bulk of the demonstrators were members of the Communist-oriented Sohyo Union Federation, which has established a quota system among its member unions to assure a big turnout for anti-American agitation here.

Statement Reversed by Sheriff

BLITHEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The sheriff has reversed his previous statement that a white café operator was not involved in a gunfight that resulted in the death of a negro.

Sheriff William Berryman said yesterday the café operator, Larry Morse, "had every right to turn fire."

The shooting Monday ended with the death of Isaac Perkins, a Negro recently released from the county prison farm, and the wounding of Police Chief Charley Short.

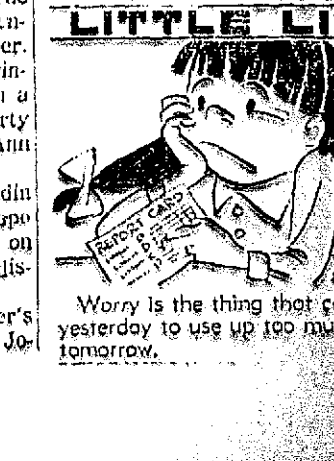

The sheriff first said Morse had no part in the gunfight. A witness said she saw Morse fire a pistol "at about the same time a police officer did."

Berryman said Morse broke no law and was justified. He said no inquest was scheduled and no charge filed.

Officers said the gunfight broke out when they went to the aid of police patrolman Chester Henson, who had been called to the café because of a disturbance.

Henson said he had shot Perkins in the leg during a struggle but that when other officers arrive the Negro snatched the gun and opened fire. Short was hit in the stomach.

French Servants Quit Their Jobs

PARIS (AP) — More than a million French civil servants who want more pay stayed away from work today, disrupting activities ranging from air traffic to garbage collection.

The widespread 24-hour strike even postponed funerals because gravediggers are employed by the government.

Workers in private industry and business breathed easier when the trains, buses and subways continued to run normally and an expected sympathy strike by transport workers failed to develop.

The most notable sign of the strike was the array of garbage beginning to pile up in French cities.

Government ministries were on skeleton staffs — with all the clerks and junior employees out on strike. Normal government routine came to a standstill.

Typhoon Hits China

HONG KONG (AP) Typhoon Mary slammed into Communist China today after striking a crippling blow at this refugee-crowded British colony.

At least 40 persons were killed in Hong Kong, 23 were missing and 29 injured, according to preliminary police estimates. The casualty toll was expected to rise as rescue workers dug into the wreckage.

There has been no report so far from Peking on the progress of the storm after it hit the Communist mainland.

U. S. to Maintain Collective Defense

GENEVA (AP) — The United States firmly told the Soviet Union today it will not abandon the collective defense of the free world as the price for a world disarmament treaty.

U. S. Ambassador Frederick M. Eaton said the new Soviet disarmament plan would require the "liquidation of all free world security arrangements through the complete and immediate withdrawal of U. S. forces from the areas overseas where they are now stationed at the specific request of our friends."

Eaton gave the 10-nation disarmament conference the first formal Western comments on the plan put forward by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev last week. The first stage of the new plan calls for destruction of all vehicles able to deliver nuclear weapons and simultaneous liquidation of all foreign military bases.

Officials of the International Assn. of Machinists Thursday said it would order IAM workers not to cross the EAA's picket line.

The move came as talks between the firm and the two unions remained deadlocked.

On another front in Southern California's troubled plane-and-missile scene, there was one hopeful note: Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s missiles and space division was expected to make an announcement — possibly a new contract offer — at a meeting in San Francisco today with another IAM union.

Involved are 10,500 employees at Lockheed facilities in Van Nuys, Sunnyvale, Santa Cruz and Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., and at Holloman AFB, N.M., and in Hawaii.

The IAM has authorized a strike at the Douglas aircraft plant in Santa Monica, Calif., next week. The United Auto Workers has set a June 15 strike deadline at the Douglas plant in Long Beach.

The IAM assigned pickets five days ago at bases where Convair technicians were working on Atlas launching sites and other high-priority government projects: Cape Canaveral, Vandenberg, Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., Warren Air Force Base, Wyo., and Offutt Air Force Base, Neb.

Convair offered the engineers the same deal it did IAM work-interim seem in part to have been responsible for the actions which resulted in the open conflicts between the directors backing the administration and the doctors opposing him.

The entire medical and dental staff of the hospital filed a court suit against Coston and the directors 11 months ago, charging them with violating the hospital by-laws, interfering with professional medical services, and hiring hospital employees without consulting the medical staff.

The injunction suit was dismissed and the doctors appealed to the state's highest court.

The doctors decided to boycott the hospital, sending only emergency and obstetrical cases there and using hospitals in nearby communities to treat other patients.

The hospital began losing up to $500 a day and faced the possibility of closing.

The arbitration board was finally set up, with all parties agreeing to abide by its recommendations.

Chapter 23

Frost lay on the grass, sparkling in first sunlight, when Riley Buckner came out of the Brewster place toting his saddle and blanket and strode toward the barn. In the house, Guiley Jordan still slept. Guiley, knew about the cave now, for to warn Dorcas about Timmerman Gulch last night had meant speaking before Guiley, considering Guiley would be riding, too. But there was this little edge of time to be put to advantage.

Five minutes later he headed up the hill road, breakfasting in the saddle from the last of the restaurant food he'd fetched. A few more miles of climbing and he sensed he was nearing the spot where he had overtaken Sam Tull last night.

He bent forward, studying the grass. Now he could see where some heavy object had been dragged, possibly at the end of a saddle rope, leaving a path of flattened grass and a thin trail of blood. He veered from the road and walked the horse along this pathway, walked it to a clump of trees a hundred yards away. And here he found the sprawled body of Sam Tull, face down, with a bullet hole between the shoulder blades.

When Tull had brought that gun up flaming, he'd tried to get at his own gun, but he was sure he hadn't made it. He'd been lost then in a nightmare of pain and shock aboard a bolting horse, and it had been someone else who'd shot Tull and then dragged his body here.

Duke was no back-shooter, give him that.

He shook his head and mounted his horse again. He didn't like leaving Tull lying there, but he had no tool with which to bury him and no time to take the body to town. He got back to the road and followed it upward again, and was soon to where it became a winding lane flanked on either side by crowded timber. He rode slowly, carefully, not certain of what might lie beyond each bend. His caution soon served him. He heard voices, sharp in the mountain air, and he pulled his horse off into timber and waited till two riders dropped down the road past him. He had only a glimpse of them, but he recognized the Darby brothers riding single file. Hatched on the hunt.

He began working through this back country and soon had to dismount and lead his horse. The sun climbed higher, and he sweated and after a while thirst became a torment, and each mile gained was sheer toil. Again and again he had to backtrack and go round about, finding himself blocked by tangles of fallen timber, but always he kept veering east, and by noon he looked from the rim down into Timmerman Gulch.

An hour later he came to a break in the sheer face of the cliff, for here the rim had crumbled away and a shale slope spread downward. He ventured the slope carefully, hauling the reluctant horse behind him. They came slipping and sliding, sending a small avalanche ahead. But he got to the floor of the gulch without injury to himself or the horse, and he stood for a few minutes, breathing heavily. He went then to the creek that trickled through here and fell beside it and drank deeply, and the horse drank, too, until he pulled the mount away.

He knew every landmark now, every rock, every tree, remembered from childhood. He knew that shale slope ahead, marking the east end of the gulch; and when he climbed it, he would see the black maw of the cave. His horse whinnied then, and another horse, unseen, answered, and his heart seemed to stop beating, for if a horse was here, likely a man was here, and the man would be warned.

Peering, he saw the horse, picketed in the timber, crowding the south wall of the gulch. It was unsaddled — a blaze-faced black — but when he rode closer, he saw that it wore the Boxed J brand. It grazed on a rope long enough to permit it to water at the creek; and by all that was sensible, it had to be Duke's horse.

Dismounting, he led his own horse deep into the thicket and tied it up and stood waiting, listening. No sound from the cave, no boots disturbing the shale slope before the cave. He ventured forward; he reached the foot of the slope and began carefully climbing. He got to the top of the slope, and the high wide entrance to the cave was before him. His most defenseless moment would be when he walked through that opening with the light behind him and his silhouette sharply apparent to anyone within.

He waited for his eyes to grow accustomed to the gloom. He saw where a fire had been built not far from the entrance, and close by were Duke's saddle and blanket and gunny-sack. When he bent for a closer look, he saw a tablet and a pencil near the saddle. Folded on top of the tablet was a note.

The note bore no salutation and no signature, but it was plainly intended for Dorcas:

Midnight by my watch, and something must have happened or you'd have got here by now. I started down the gulch as soon as it got dark, but I found Hatched camped and blocking the way. Probably that's what's keeping you from reaching me. I've staked out my horse because I think I can get past them on foot. If I can make it, I'll drift down the road a piece and hope to meet you coming. If we miss each other, and you somehow manage to reach here, please wait. I'll be back soon as it is safe.

DOROTHY DIX

A Variation of Oedipus Rex

Dear Dorothy Dix:

Thirty-seven years ago I married a divorced man who had two children. But wasn't interested in having their custody. He said they would never interfere in our marriage. The daughter is now 38, married and has two children, 16 and 12 years old. She is separated from husband and children and takes care of her invalid mother. My husband's former wife.

She came to see us. Her mother did not know it. While here she and her father, Kecked and kissed. One night they didn't get home till 12:45 a.m. I told her to leave. They left Thursday. I did not see him till Monday a.m. She said if I wanted him, I'd have to fight for him. Please advise me.

Dear L. L.: This situation is not new. Sons do fall in love with their mothers and daughters with their fathers. The unnatural relationship, however unpleasant, is a classical theme. In your case matters are complicated by the fact that you are the stepmother. This alone would make the daughter aggressive. She's on her parents' side, not yours. She speaks the truth when she says you'll have to fight to get her father back. It can be done — if you love him enough. Do you?

Dear Dorothy Dix:

My problem is my brothers and sisters. Our father passed away recently. I turned to my boy friend for help. He did everything. I appreciated it. My sisters and brothers didn't. They liked him before my father's death. Now they insult him. How can I make them stop? I'm 38, my boy friend is 19. We are not children any more.

Dear L. H.: You are evidently still the kid sister in the eyes of your family. They probably feel doubly responsible for you since your father's death and being new in the role, show their concern by snubbing you, boy friend.

Prove you are old enough to steer your own course by ignoring their jibes. If your boy friend is the man he seems to be, he'll take it in his stride.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

Three years ago my nephew got married. His mother, my sister-in-law, asked me to help her prepare lunch for a shower for the young couple. We baked the sponge cake in our oven as theirs was not in working order. I helped in the afternoon, and evening while lunch was served. I did this with pleasure and took it as an honor. Recently my granddaughter got married. My daughter had a reception for the couple. She asked my sister-in-law, to direct the waitresses. My sister-in-law refused, saying it was an insult for her to be in the kitchen at all. Was she right? Are we all in the wrong? — Want Peace

Dear Want Peace: Certainly your sister-in-law wasn't being a good sport. The ways of in-laws are unfathomable and perversity their middle name. But in all fairness, your sister-in-law may have felt she had cause. Some busy-body might have deliberately stirred up trouble.

Send your problem to DOROTHY DIX. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and address her in care of this newspaper.

Hospital at Memphis Is Taking Shape

MEMPHIS (AP) — A $2,350,000 children's hospital conceived in adversity and financed through laughter starts taking shape today.

The rumble of bulldozers marked the beginning of the end of a long campaign by comedian Danny Thomas, whose hawknosed profile is familiar to millions of television viewers.

St. Jude's Hospital is his baby. He promised it to his patron saint during a down-and-out period. He personally raised 1½ million dollars for it with benefit shows.

Thomas has sweated with the project, worried over it, almost given up on it. But now the construction contracts have been signed.

The wisecracking comedian, who is very serious about the hospital, was rubbied at a benefit played here in a baseball park last night.

Chattanooga defeated Memphis 7-5 in the Southern Assn. game.

"Had the contract not been signed, this trip would not have been a contract signed," he told some 3,000 spectators.

The hospital will treat all children's diseases but specialize in leukemia—cancer of the blood.

Leukemia kills. There is no known cure.

Out Thomas, a Catholic, has an almost mystic faith that St. Jude's Hospital is destined for great things. St. Jude is the patron saint for hopeless causes.

"It is my belief that St. Jude Hospital will one day announce to the world the great tidings of a cure for leukemia or cancer or even both," he said. I am proud to beg for this project."

He plans to raise another $500,000. The St. Jude Committee pledged to have $500,000 in hand by Jan. 1.

The project was born years ago when the comedian's career was in a slump. He prayed to St. Jude. When success swerved his way he vowed to build the hospital in gratitude.

Fulfillment of that vow is in sight.

Thomas decided on Memphis as the site of the hospital after numerous conferences with his close friend, the late Samuel Cardinal Stritch of Chicago. Cardinal Stritch was once a parish priest here.

A Memphis firm was awarded the contract to build the hospital.

Oscar Wilde made his summation of life in this way: "In this world there are only two tragedies. One is not getting what one wants, and the other is getting it."

V-BOTTOM RUNABOUT PASSES ROUGH TESTS By WM. TAYLOR MCKEOWN Editor, Popular Boating (Distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Notable innovations in pleasure-craft hull designs are rare, but a run-about from the drawing board of C. Raymond Hunt is creating great interest.

Called the Hunt 19, it is a 16-foot version of the larger boats in which Richard Bertram finished first and we came in second in the recent rugged Miami-to-Nassau race.

Most small motorboats today start with a v-shaped section at the bow and broaden as they run off until they are almost flat-bottomed at the transom. Ray Hunt of Boston had other ideas. With experience ranging from tiny small-sailing classes to the design ports.

of the American Cup contender, Easterner Hunt does not hesitate to experiment.

The result is a fiberglass hull made by the Marcell division of George O'Day which keeps the shape for its entire length. Along the bottom are long ridges which add directional stability and help the boat get up onto the surface in planing position. It can take outboard or inboard power. We heard that it could safely handle large seas that might normally be dangerous for a 16-foot boat, and assigned marine engineer Jim Wynne to give it a workout for a Popular Boating test report.

Straight-away runs were made at various throttle settings to find how much speed was necessary to get the boat up on plane.

Gradual turns were tried and sharp ones at high speed to see how the hull would feel or skid excessively. With a Volvo engine drive, the boat topped 30 miles an hour and still handled smoothly without any attempt to fight the driver or roll on the turns.

Five more passengers were brought aboard and the maneuvers repeated. The Hunter 19 proved very stable, with no tendencies to lurch severely as passengers moved about.

Along again, Wynne ran the boat in fast circles so that he had to drive across the waves of his own wake. Hitting the chop at an angle and sometimes jumping clear of the water, the ground the boat could hold course even with his hands off the wheel — not an experiment to try with a conventional boat.

Earlier tests were run on Florida's inland waterway off the Lauderdale Marina. So for a graduation exercise Wynne ran the Hunter 19 through the steep seas of the inlet and out into the open Atlantic.

The Gulf Stream offshore was kicking up with rolling ground swells topped by a confused chop. Through it all skipped the Hunter 19, with the v-hull giving a stable ride.

Though this hull design draws more water than similar flat-bottomed boats, it refutes the idea that a boat of this type must be slow.

The Hunter 19 is a fast run-about that can take rough seas without pounding and its different look in hulls might start a new trend in boats that can venture offshore.

Quake Jolts Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — Tokyo was jolted by a moderate earthquake today. There were no damage or small-sailing classes to the design ports.

Park Activities And Objectives Directed Play
Directed play is individual or group play in which there are as many or as few playing in each activity as there are children who desire that activity.

Games: Bouncing, Kicking, throwing or catching balls, jumping rope, playing horse, playing singing games, playing with dolls, scooters and others.

Objectives: It provides opportunities for children to gain and enjoy a feeling of security through participation in familiar and informal activities.

It provides for play under conditions comparatively free from authority where the more natural behavior recreations of children in play situations may be observed.

Small group play: is organized play providing for activity in small groups of not more than eight for the primary purpose of social development.

Games: Bowling, Brownies and Fairies, Buddy spud, call ball, club snatch, cross tag, dare tag, dodge ball.

Objectives: A set-up for the development of social conduct in situations different from those reached in directed play.

Small social units in which the problems of leadership and fellowship arise.

A repertoire of many games requiring little or no equipment.

HD Club Holds Meeting
The McCaskill Home Demonstration Club met on Thursday, June 2, in the home of Mrs. Jodie Goff, with the President, Mrs. Verdie Walker, presiding. Devotion was conducted by Mrs. Zephora Merrick.

The roll call was answered with each member responding to "What do you consider a well balanced meal?" Short talks were made by Mrs. Verdie Walker, Mrs. Ola Briggs, Mrs. Rhoda Jones and others. "How should we go about planning our meals?" was discussed by the president.

Games were played and refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Norvell Watts, Reporter.

Bible School
The Loneko Baptist Church will hold their annual session of the Vacation Bible School, June 13-17. Courses of study will be open to the children of the city. There will be five departments as follows: Pre-school, beginners, primary, junior and teen-agers.

Faculty: Pre-school, beginners and primary department teachers: Mrs. Savannah Pigrum, Mrs. Lucy Isles and Mrs. Corra Draper. Music: Miss Eva Mae Smith. Junior Department: Miss Marva Rutherford and Mrs. Louise Hicks.

Teen-Agers Department: Mrs. Mattie Bazzelle and Miss Willie Mae Gavenport.

The school will open each morning at 9 and close at 12 noon. The principal, Mrs. James E. Coby, was pleased with the large number of enrollment Friday morning. All pupils are urged to be present on time each morning.

The commencement exercises will be held Friday evening at 7:30.

Sukarno Denies Coup
JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) - President Sukarno formally resumed his presidential duties today and denounced reports of an army coup d'etat as "an utter lie."

The president charged "certain interested foreign groups" with spreading false rumors so they could "have things their own way" and "split the unity of the Indonesian republic." He refused to identify the foreign groups.

Outside his family and his music, composer Irving Berlin has few interests. He has tried hobbies like poker, golf, cooking and painting, but soon lost interest in each.

India is increasing her air force to drop supplies to troops in the roadless frontier regions.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - American cargo planes bought by India have begun arriving to bolster India's military strength along the disputed northern border with Communist China.

A defense ministry spokesman announced that delivery of the C119 Flying Boxcars began a few weeks ago. He declined to give the number purchased, but one report said 30.

THE STORY OF MARTHA WAYNE

Whosoever Will may come to Church may come to God...

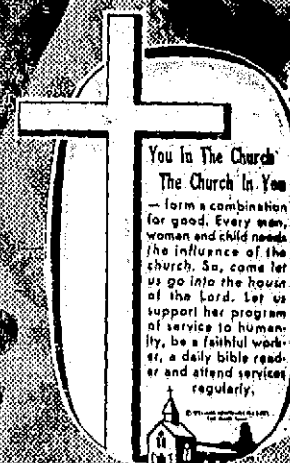

This Chain

... surely it is capable of drawing a heavy load. Another chain might hold a tiny cross or a precious gem in place. Still another might bind my arms in helplessness. But the old adage is true. "No chain is stronger than its weakest link." One link, the weakest link, governs the strength. For one weak link the heavy load breaks loose, or something precious is lost, or the manacled arms are free again. There, too, are chains of character, good habits, religious morals that make us strong and dependable in difficult hours. These attributes are as links of the chain. For life is of a piece and every day is part of the chain that counts toward everlasting. Then anchor the picture of the chain in the gallery of your meditation. Then form good habits that hold us firmly in constructive toil. Attend church regularly and support God's cause with your means. Put goodness, integrity and truthfulness into your personal character chain. Let God's church and His faithful help you forge a chain of strength and usefulness.
